

Why do teachers send

books home to read?

1

Teachers send books home so children will have opportunities to practise what is taught at school.

2

It allows children to discuss with their parents what they are reading and have read.

3

Additional practice will help your child improve their word recognition, comprehension and fluency.

4

It allows for a child's love of reading to grow and develop.

5

As a parent, you get a sense of how your child is progressing.

Why do teachers send

books home to read?

1

Teachers send books home so children will have opportunities to practise what is taught at school.

2

It allows children to discuss with their parents what they are reading and have read.

3

Additional practice will help your child improve their word recognition, comprehension and fluency.

4

It allows for a child's love of reading to grow and develop.

5

As a parent, you get a sense of how your child is progressing.